NDL to Celebrate Local Authors at its Fourth Annual Local Author Fair this May

Northville, MI: Northville District Library (NDL) is proud to host its fourth annual Local Author Fair on Saturday, May 18, from 2 p.m. – 4 p.m. at the Northville Community Center, 303 W Main St, Northville. This event will feature 25 authors from Michigan, half of whom live in the Northville area.

Adult Services Librarian Emily Dobbs planned, organized, and will host the event at the Northville Community Center. Emily says:

This year's Local Author Fair features a diverse collection of books, among them: heartfelt memoirs, historical fiction, inspirational nonfiction, short stories, fantasy, and beautiful illustrated picture books for young readers. And, we are proud to have two young authors joining the Fair who will be sharing their books. Both Northville residents and authors from surrounding communities in Metro Detroit will be gathering to share their books with our community. I am so pleased with our selection of authors and can't wait for members of our community to meet the authors and read their books.

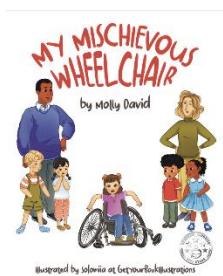

NDL hosted its first Local Author Fair in February 2020, with 20 authors participating. During the COVID-19 pandemic when large in-person gatherings could not be held, the Library decided against trying to create a virtual version of the event. In 2022 the event returned in person.

Everyone is welcome to visit the Local Author Fair and there is no admission fee. Each author will have copies of their books available for purchase. For a full list of participating authors please visit the Local Author Fair page on the Library's website here: <https://nvillelib.org/LocalAuthors>
